Salary Packaging is an Australian Taxation Office (ATO) approved method of restructuring your gross salary in order to pay less tax. The ATO gives your employer generous tax concessions, which they elect to pass on to you.

How does Salary Packaging work?

When you package, money for certain personal expenses (called benefits) is deducted from your salary before tax is taken out. You then only pay tax on the remaining portion of your salary.

Salary Packaging Caps

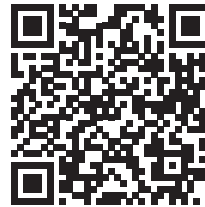

The Australian Government sets limits on how much you can Salary Package in each Fringe Benefits Tax (FBT) year.

The annual total capped amounts that employees may package (Living Expenses plus Entertainment Benefits) are:

Employer Type	Public Benevolent Institution (PBI)/Charity	Hospital/ Public Health
Living Expenses Cap	$15,900.00	$9,010.00
Entertainment Benefits Cap	$2,649.00	$2,649.00
Total	$18,549.00	$11,659.00
